

Intervention Program

We understand how heartbreaking and futile it is to have a loved one who is destroying their life with Alcohol and or Drugs and is so addicted that they cannot even see what their abuse is doing to themselves or to their loved ones. The sleepless nights worrying, the anger and frustration, with no seeming hope or help in sight. Addiction is the Disease of Denial and it's only natural that the predisposed addict that has become addicted is primarily using drugs and or alcohol as their main coping skill in their life will be defiant and resistant, minimizing the severity of their disease, and it's negative impact on their life and significant others. There is a misconception in the field of Addiction that one has to be willing and motivated to accept Treatment and get into recovery. That is just not the case and with the proper presentation of the Intervention and the right Treatment program willingness and motivation for change will come. Our Intervention program will guide you through the whole process from gathering all pertinent information, to planning, organizing, proper presentation of the actual Intervention to ultimately accompanying your loved one to one of the pre- selected Treatment Programs selected.
